and family/parent/academic support for students including STAR will be given online in 2014/15. Next week Thousand Oaks, Oxford, and Emerson elementary schools will be piloted for one grade for one assessment. This pilot is a mock assessment to see how the new online testing format works.

BUSD will be standardizing Chromebooks as the general platform for testing. There are about 300 Chromebooks now and by September there will be about 1000 in the District, with 1 cart per school and 30 Chromebooks per cart. Even though iPads really work well for students whose typing is not native, they are very expensive. Middle school teachers want students to produce papers for research projects, and the students that do not type are at a disadvantage. Emerson, Muir, and LeConte are starting keyboarding classes both during the school day and after school.
